Parking around school.

This week an angry neighbour who lives on Whitwell Lane emailed me to complain about inconsiderate parking by parents. Her complaint was around parents parking on the pavement, on blind corners and across the drives of residents. She asked for my help. There are many things I can do. Sorting out parking isn't one of them. We have given her the number of the enforcement officer. I can only ask you to park considerately.

Phonics, Keyword and Reading at home.

It's really important that the children practise at home so that they keep up. The yellow highlighted words are tricky because they sound at and need to be read 'on sight'. The other words can be sounded out but they appear so often in our language that it's better that the children learn to read them on sight. It helps with their fluency.

What Parents & Carers Need to Know about HOW TO COMBAT ONLINE BULLYING

Defined as "ongoing hurtful behaviour towards someone online", cyber-bullying makes its victims feel upset, uncomfortable and unsafe. In the digital world, it has numerous forms – such as hurtful comments on a person's posts or profile; deliberately leaving them out of group chats; sharing embarrassing images or videos of someone; or spreading gossip about them. Cyber-bullying can severely impact a young person's mental health – so, in support of Anti-Bullying Week, we've provided a list of tips to help trusted adults know what to look for and how to respond to it.

1. GET CONNECTED

Playing online games together with your child or connecting with them on social media (providing they're old enough) is not only fun but also an excellent way of establishing some common ground to discuss things you've both seen or done online – as well as keeping an eye on who your child is communicating with in the digital world.

2. KEEP TALKING

Regular chats with young people about their online lives are good practice in general, but they can also be an excellent refresher to help prevent cyber-bullying situations. Topics you might want to reveal include why it's important to only connect online with people we know and trust, and why passwords should always remain secret (even from our best friends).

3. STAY VIGILANT

Observe your child while they're using technology and just after they've used it. Are they acting normally, or out of character? Possible signs of a problem may include seeming quiet or withdrawn, fumpy or anxious, angry or repeatedly checking their phone. When you feel it's the right time, you may want to check in with them to see if everything is OK.

4. MAKE YOURSELF AVAILABLE

If an online bullying incident does occur, it may take a while before your child is ready to open up about what happened. Just gently remind them that they can always come to you with any problems – and that they won't be in trouble. You might also suggest a trusted family member they could turn to, in case they feel too embarrassed to tell you directly.

5. BE PREPARED TO LISTEN

When conversations about online bullying do take place, they're likely to be difficult, emotional and upsetting for both you and your child. Actively listen to your child while they're bringing you up to speed, and try not to show any judgement or criticism – even if they haven't dealt with the situation in exactly the way you would have hoped.

FURTHER SUPPORT AND ADVICE

If you or your child need additional help with an online bullying issue, here are some specialist organisations that you could reach out to.

Childline: talk to a trained counsellor on 0800 1111 or online at www.childline.org.uk/get-support/

National Bullying Helpline: counsellors are available on 0845 325 5787 or by visiting www.nationalbullyinghelpline.co.uk/cyberbullying.html

The NSPCC: the children's charity has a guide to the signs of bullying at www.nspcc.org.uk/what-is-child-abuse/types-of-abuse/bullying-and-cyberbullying/ and can be reached on 0800 800 5000

6. EMPOWER YOUR CHILD

Depending on their age, your child might not want a parent fighting their battles for them. In that case, talk through their options with them (blocking the perpetrator, deleting the app and so on), by allowing your child to choose the path they take, you're putting them in control but are also demonstrating that you're there to support them along the way.

7. REPORT BULLIES ONLINE

Cyber-bullying often takes place through a particular app, social media platform or online game. If this is happening to your child, encourage them to report the offender to the app or game in question – always with screenshots to support their complaint. Most games and apps have reporting tools specifically to stamp out abusive behaviour and protect users.

8. ENCOURAGE EMPATHY

Protecting themselves online is the priority, of course, but young people should also feel empowered to help if they witness other people falling victim to cyberbullying. Even if they don't feel confident enough to call someone out on their abusive behaviour online, they can still confidentially report that person to the app or game where the bullying occurred.

9. SEEK EXPERT ADVICE

Victims of online bullying frequently experience feelings of isolation and anxiety, or loss of self-esteem and potentially even thoughts of self-harm or suicide. If you think that an incident of cyber-bullying has affected your child's mental wellbeing, then seek psychological support for them. There are some useful contact details in the central panel below.

10. INVOLVE THE AUTHORITIES

If the nature of any online bullying makes you suspect that your child is genuinely in imminent physical danger – or if there are any signs whatsoever of explicit images being shared as part of the bullying – then you should gather any relevant screenshots as evidence and report the incidents to your local police force.

Meet Our Expert

She has written various academic papers and carried out research for the Australian government comparing internet use and sexting behaviour of young people in the UK, USA and Australia.

Nursery News

We have been having a spring clean in our outdoor area this week. Using our big muscles is really good for us at this stage in our development so we have dug, raked, scrubbed and shifted soil, roots, stones and ivy. It looks so much better and we have even created ourselves a new little garden ready to be planted up after Easter.

The Easter Bunny has hopped by Nursery twice this week, the Easter hats were superb and we can't wait to see photos of the beans as they grow bigger at home. Have a lovely holiday time together.

Star of the Week

Myles Morton is the kindest, most considerate young man. He never takes from others, makes sure everyone gets their share and is always there to help somebody, even if it means stopping what he is doing. Myles, we are so impressed by your thought and care.

Mrs Townsend's Pupil of the Week

Matilda Wharton-Lovett

I spent the day with Matilda on Tuesday at Ecclesall Woods and she made a lovely day even nicer. She was like a little shadow and such wonderful company. She listened to every instruction and did exactly as she was asked all day long. She quietly got on with all the activities. She was independent, tried hard and was determined to do the best job she could. What a splendid little girl Matilda is.

Tweak of the Week: If someone hurts you or is unkind, find a grown-up to help you sort it out. Don't try to make it right by being unkind back or by hitting or kicking. It just makes it worse!

The children's out of school achievements this week. Keep them coming. What they do and learn out of school is as important as what they do here.

This smart group of friends had a great day performing in two concerts with Barnsley Youth Choir.

This remarkable young lady passed her stage 5 at swimming for treading water for 30 seconds last weekend. Well done!

Big Walk and Wheel Challenge – Thank You!

A huge thank you to all our children and families for your fantastic support during this year's Big Walk and Wheel Active Travel Challenge. Your enthusiasm, creativity, and commitment to travelling actively made the fortnight truly special.

It was wonderful to see so many of you taking part in the events, from Bling Your Bike and Trainer Day, to Tuesday Shoesday, Beep Beep Day, Let the Chalk Do the Talking and of course our fun-filled Fantasy Friday. The smiles, photos, chalk messages, riddle solving skills and imaginative outfits showed just how much our school community embraces being active together.

We are also delighted to share that the video from the South Yorkshire Mayor's visit is now complete. You can view it below and relive the excitement of the Mayor joining us and judging our Blinged Wheels Parade!

Because our school community did such an incredible job throughout the challenge, we're thrilled to announce that additional scooter storage will be purchased for the school. This will make it even easier for children to continue travelling actively every day.

Thank you once again for your amazing support—let's keep moving, walking, wheeling, and staying active together!

Here is a link to the video that has been put together from when the Mayor of South Yorkshire came to visit.

Food for Life

This year we are working towards achieving our Food for Life Silver Award. The Food for Life Schools Award is a framework for schools to teach children about food and where it comes from. Working towards our silver award requires us to involve parents and the local community in our learning about food. With this in mind, we recently had a student nutritionist in school delivering a cooking workshop for some of our families. They had a great time cooking a spaghetti bolognese together and it smelt so good it got everyone's mouths watering! The recipe for this and other low cost healthy eating meals are attached to this newsletter, in case you would like to try them at home.

New café opens at Food Matters

Food Matters Community Hub (opposite the Spar) has a new coffee shop!

Open Tuesdays and Thursdays 10-12pm, the coffee shop is offering modestly priced hot drinks and cake.

Also, on site are the Food Bank and Community Shop. Open to all, the hub is a great way to meet friends, enjoy a warm space and access lots of local help and advice.
